DECIDED SUCCESS

Crowded House Greet
First Performance
Of Children

Motionless, without the quiver of a muscle, without the winking of an eye, unmoved by the blaze of the footlights in front of them or the enthusiastic applause of the audience, the little dolls of the Toy Shop stood last night for many long minutes, until the waning of the fairies' wands galvanized them into life.

It was a test of discipline and of self-control such as could have been successfully stood by few older people—for there is no orical more muscle-tiring than to stand motionless for nearly fifteen minutes. But those children stood it wonderfully well. They might well have been the toys they were supposed to be.

The Toy Shop, the first performance of which was given last night, was a success in every particular.—In the singing, the costuming, the acting, the dancing and drilling were excellent, while the stage, with its scenes of brilliantly dressed children, its colors, the rhythmic movements, presented as pretty a scene as was ever seen on a Honolulu stage.

The dolls were there in full force.—French dolls, china dolls, lady dolls, bisque dolls, Dutch, Japanese and American dolls. Even the old rag doll was there, somewhat dilapidated, and with the sawdust running out of ghastly wounds, but very much alive and not to be suppressed. And there were wooden soldiers and fairies and marines; tin soldiers and a band; old father Noah and his family,—all but poor Ham, whom unfortunate circumstances had made it necessary to transform into sandwiches.

One of the hits of the evening was scored by the tin soldiers, led by Miss Lorna Hauka. Their stiff, jointed, stiff-necked gait was so ridiculously funny that it brought down the house. Miss Hauka's flirtation with the French doll, personated by Miss Adelaide de l'Artigue, was one of the features of the show, and the singing of the two was good. Miss de l'Artigue made a very fetching French doll. The singing of Miss Agnes Lyle, as the Japanese maiden, brought out round after round of applause. Noah and his sons were by no means the least amusing of the actors, while the three fops proved themselves adepts at the game of flirtation conducted with the three lady dolls.

The part of the Toy Maker was taken by Frederick Hastings, who scored another success in the part. Miss May Bell Ray, in her part as the mortal child, made a hit as usual, her singing and acting bringing out enthusiastic applause.

Little Ruth Farrington made a most dainty queen, and bore herself with all the dignity of royalty. Much credit is due Miss Martin for her success in training such a large number of children. The work was, of course, very arduous and required much patience and tact.

Miss Margaret Hopper presided at the piano, and her accurate accompaniment showed that in faithful, patient work she was not one whit behind Miss Martin. Without her the performance would not have attained such splendid results.

It is remarkable that with a cast made up of such a large number of children, many of them the tiniest mites of humanity, the initial performance should go off with such smoothness and without a hitch of any kind. A crowded house greeted the opening performance.

Following is the cast of the Toy Shop:

The Toy Maker, Mr. Frederick Hastings; Paris Doll, Miss Adelaide de l'Artigue; Captain Blocklin, Miss Lorna Hauka; Captain Woodenhead, Mr. Clarence Waterman; Leader of the Band, Marcus Monsarrat; Japanese Maiden, Miss Agnes Lyle; Johnny, Ivan Graham; Baker, Vernon Tenney; Queen, Ruth Farrington; Child, Miss Ray Bell.

Comedians—Noah, Mr. Jas. Wilder; Mrs. Noah, Mr. Willard E. Brown; Shem, Mr. Geo. P. Cooke; Japheth, Mr. Richard Cooke; Dr. Pillsbury, Mr. Coleman Schwartz; Rag Doll, Watson

SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

Miss Kate McDonald

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, headache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, or other female weaknesses.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

"Restored health has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling about it for the sake of other suffering women. For a long time I suffered untold agony with a female trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.
